

Recently, I received a form letter from a Bitterroot Valley realtor: one of those "National Brands", asking if I wanted to sell my property there. I asked for an estimate of what the Broker thought I could get for my property. I then called Rich Miller and we priced my property where it should be: considerably higher. I got an offer four days later that was just what I had hoped for and also fair for the buyer. Rich wasn't trying to make a quick sale on an out of state owner. He went the distance, priced it correctly and saw us all the way through to the closing.

Well Done!
